

THE MOUNTAIN BUGLE,

EDITED BY ELLA A. CHAPPEL,

Will be Published Weekly at COUNCIL BLUFF AGENCY, the prospective Capitol of NEBRASKA TERRITORY.

It will be the intention of those connected with the paper to make it what it can be, the most interesting one in the world. Council Bluff Agency is now a village of respectable size. It contains three large stores, two missionary establishments, two schools, and mechanics of various kinds.

St. Francis, on the Iowa side of the river, contains three stores, two or three blacksmith's shops, about one hundred houses, and is situated at the old Pottawattamie Agency.

The columns of the "BUGLE" will contain the latest news from the gold region, and serve as an index to the treasure seeker. It will unite the interests of the Western and Eastern world, and form a medium of communication reliable as well as interesting. Council Bluff Agency is the Depot of the mountain trappers, and the only available point from which correct information can be obtained of those now deeply interesting regions.

The utmost pains will be taken to gain perfect knowledge of the geological position and formation of the country in and about this important point. A great Central Rail Road will be strongly advocated, to pass through this place, as the only practicable route to the Pacific. The eligibility of the road will be set forth as well as its difficulties.

A description will be given of the Missouri and its numerous tributaries, and also of the facilities afforded to those wishing to make a permanent residence in that vicinity.

The location of the "BUGLE" is fruitful with themes of song and story. Truths stranger than fiction are of every day occurrence. Legends of the forest children; descriptions of their dress, manners and customs; Biographies of the most eminent chiefs and warriors of the various tribes, will be given. Anecdotes, illustrating Indian character, will add life and interest, and an attempt will be made to rescue from oblivion's insatiate spirit the relics of a once noble and mighty race.

Council Bluff Agency is 129 miles west of Ft. Des Moines, and 320 from Du Buque. The road through on Clark's route, is over a fine country, on high elevated ridges, avoiding the sloughs and little lakes above, and the deep and dangerous streams below, taking a line between them at once safe and easy to the emigrant and his family.

The "BUGLE" will be neutral in Politics & Religion, but a strong supporter of reform, and a firm temperance champion.

We feel certain of support worthy the age, and that success is sure unless energy fail. With a strong desire to please and determination to succeed, we take upon us the responsible duties attendant upon the possessor of the tripod, and shall endeavor to discharge them well and faithfully.

Terms--$3.00 per annum, payable in advance.

The first number will be forthcoming as soon as a sufficient number of subscribers are obtained. There will be a regular over-land mail through, and the papers will be sent seasonably and correctly to every post office of the Union.

Postmasters are our authorized agents.

Editors copying this Prospectus, and sending a paper MARKED to Du Buque. (if sent before the 1st of March,) after that time to Council Bluff Agency, Nebraska Territory, will be entitled to an exchange.

Du Buque, Dec. 25, 1849.

ELLA A. CHAPPEL.
